The Local Capacity Building Initiative is a statewide effort by the New York State Council on the Arts (NYSCA) to provide local support for widespread participation in arts in education. To that end, 24 organizations receive a block grant from the NYSCA Arts in Education Program and re-grant funds to support partnerships between schools and teaching artists or cultural organizations. Materials for the Arts

MFTA provides over 2,800 arts programs with the things they need to prosper and endure. MFTA gathers materials from companies that no longer need them, and distributes them to artists and educators that do. MFTA removes hundreds of tons from the New York City sanitation system, and they help artists realize their visions, provide students with a richer educational experience, and furnish businesses with a simple and efficient way to enhance the cultural life of their city. MFTA is a program of the Department of Cultural Affairs and receives funding from the Department of Sanitation through their department of Waste Prevention, Reuse, and Recycling. The Department of Education has added their support by allowing MFTA to give teachers access to supplies.

Teaching Tolerance

This program supports K-12 educators in developing and implementing anti-bias projects in classrooms, schools and communities. Projects funded by The Teaching Tolerance Grants Program tend to be small-scale, resourceful and student-focused, promoting acceptance of diversity, and encouragement of peacemaking, community service or any other aspect of tolerance education. They must be clearly defined, well-integrated and tailored to the specified needs and interests of particular learners and their communities; economically responsible, involving staff participation, community volunteers and in-kind contributions wherever possible; and sustainable in some way, rather than one-time-only events or activities.
